

The Center for Korean Studies
Korean Studies Symposium in 2024: Korea at the Crossroads

Friday, April 12, 2024, 2:00 – 5:30 pm
Alpern Conference Room (LN 2200), Binghamton University

Opening Plenary Session

The Perils of Semi-Sovereignty

Walden Bello (Sociology, Binghamton University)

Graduate Student Session

Archetype and Adaptation: The Transition of Architectural Pedagogy in the U.S. and Its Influence on South Korean Architecture and Urban Planning during the Cold War

Man Joong Kim (History)

Unstable Time and Space: Yi Sang in Translation

Julia Eggleston (Comparative Literature)

The Historical Institutional Conditions of the Professional Managerial Class of Science in Korea: The Establishment of KIST under U.S. Imperialism in the 1960s

Hyeonseo Lee (Sociology)

Closing Plenary Session

Temporary Measures: Migrant Workers and the Developmental State in South Korea

Suzy Lee (Human Development, Binghamton)

This symposium is supported by Provost's Office, Harpur Dean's Office, and Department of Asian and Asian American Studies.
For more information, contact the Center for Korean Studies at cks@binghamton.edu.